

From Zero, Blame

i thought i could hear you echoing words of denial careful not to feel you near me clawing at what you call life hold on to what you want hold on to what you have hold on to where you are hold on to where you

ive faced the change
ive tasted pain
digging a whole lot deeper grave
ive fell aside
ive cast away
covered in shade
now take the blame!

thought i was beneath you crawling in your bed of lies you infected me with vain babe tiny daggers in my eye

hold on to what you want
hold on to what you have
hold on to where you are
hold on to where you

ive faced the change
ive tasted pain
digging a whole lot deeper grave
ive fell aside
ive cast away
covered in shade
now take the blame!

thought i could believe you selling me your big surprise only needed one more victim tearing down your one disguise

hold on to what you want
hold on to what you have
hold on to where you are
hold on to where you

ive faced the change
ive tasted pain
digging a whole lot deeper grave
ive fell aside
ive cast away
covered in shade
now take the blame!