

Funker Vogt, Sins

They all emerged one by one
Hoping for freedom but there is none
See the men in uniform
They send you out to fight the storm

Look up in the charcoal sky
Want to see the sun before you die
So please tell me what happened here
All the love is replaced by fear

Let past matter fade to shadows
Our future shall begin
When we are walking down the meadow
We will deplore all our sins

Let past matter fade to shadows
Our future shall begin
When we are walking down the meadow
We will deplore all our sins

An unknown soldier without a face
Went back home in a wooden case
He was a hero for just one day
Now his body floats in the bay

Look up in the charcoal sky
Want to see the sun before you die
So please tell me what happened here
All the love is replaced by fear

Let past matter fade to shadows
Our future shall begin
When we are walking down the meadow
We will deplore all our sins

Let past matter fade to shadows
Our future shall begin
When we are walking down the meadow
We will deplore all our sins

They only wish to forget
All they can do is to regret
So please tell me what happened here
All the love is replaced by fear

Let past matter fade to shadows
Our future shall begin
When we are walking down the meadow
We will deplore all our sins

Let past matter fade to shadows
Our future shall begin
When we are walking down the meadow
We will deplore all our sins

Let past matter fade to shadows
Our future shall begin
When we are walking down the meadow
We will deplore all our sins

Let past matter fade to shadows
Our future shall begin
When we are walking down the meadow
We will deplore all our sins
