

Further Seems Forever, Madison Prep

Give up what you think you have to say.
Formalities weaken the meaning that you'd convey.
In truth hidden in the veiled insults, have failed results for everyone that lived that way.

The training spent on all your words was obvious and all we heard
was repetition.
Representing your best interests
while wishing us
"the very best";
when that's something
that you would never give.

And some things are better stressed when unexpressed,
cause silence can be overwhelming

The training spent on all your words
was obvious and all we heard
was repetition.
Representing your best interests
while wishing us
"the very best";
when that's something
that you would never give.

We'll find some way
Some way that we can prove you wrong

The training spent on all your words
was obvious and all we heard
was repetition.
Representing your best interests
while wishing us
"the very best";
when that's something
that you would never give.

The training spent on all your words
was obvious and all we heard
was repetition.
Representing your best interests
while wishing us
"the very best";
when that's something
that you would never give.
that you would never give