In the evening, I watched the orange sun with you
With tears in our eyes, we said our final[eternal] goodbyes

In the evening, I watched the orange sun with you
With tears in our eyes, we said our final[eternal] goodbyes

Glittering waves and your profile, the picture of innocence, as you danced and played
Barefoot, running across the sand, you are so dear to me

Your name written in the sand and the decorated shells
I held your shoulders as we watched the waves wash it away

In the evening, I watched the orange sun with you
With tears in our eyes, we said our final[eternal] goodbyes

The blue sky, under its breath, is embraced by the red twilight,
As it holds us, we close our eyes

Many joys and many sorrows, countless meetings and countless goodbyes
With those times, unchanging, we're gently watching the orange sun

Back then, we dream of eternity

We held each other forever, smiling

To my surprise, I think of you
And just with that, I am satisfied
So don't cry, we can always be together, you know
If you just close your eyes

In the evening, I watched the orange sun with you
With tears in our eyes, we said our final[eternal] goodbyes

In the evening, I watched the orange sun with you
With tears in our eyes, we said our final[eternal] goodbyes
