

Girlyman, Right Here

I've seen the way you love, I know you like the build up of a mystery
I can't be that for you, I'm always gonna lose at games of hide and seek

But I will be right here, I will be right here
Right behind the door, where I left my love before
I will be right here, I will be right here

I know about rapture, the feeling that you've captured what you'll never own
With you I felt alive, sometimes too drunk to drive my sorry self back home

So see it like it is, take it like it is Right inside the room where I always wait for you
I will be right here, I will be right here

I guess I'm just no needle in the haystack, no diamond in the rough
The clock above me ticks another hour
I'm driven by some power to just give you my love

Nighttime falls again, the corners settle in, I want to call to you
Cause everybody knows, the truth of letting go is that you never do

I will be right here, I will be right here
I will be right here, I will be right here
