

Glasseater, Break Away

you've disappeared
but the thoughts remain so thick that i can grab them why can't i forget all those times why do i remain writing these lines why should i complain about defeat your face remains it's all i see etched in stone... your face remains.. but soon i will break...away why can't you see through different eyes why can't you love me with a different heart i face your fears one more time tonight... i've grown to see that it is your loss and not mine... i'll break away from all the pain in me. this inner loss will break away you'll see. i've slowly learned to deal with this fear of living on without you
why can't i forget all those times
why do i remain writing these lines
why should i complain about defeat
get off me i'm done