

Good Riddance, The Great Leap Forward

Standing for something with true strenght and heart but the old manifesto has splintered apart driven from homes to the depths of despair hear the cries of the innocent ring through the air genocide a new class warfare pushed aside to make all the people one drop dead because freedom's a cancer and state-sponsored terror's the new land reform blinded by pride and national impulse weaned on the doctrines of Lenin and Marx a blood red scar on the new face of China exploding like tinder too close to the spark this time it's genocide and the terror comes from within nobody's safe from the latest wave as the new republic's in we'll do away with agrarian notions bleed the population into fear you can't stop our populist expansion because you've got no freedoms here