Great Big Sea, Can't Stop Falling

I wasn't looking for a lover, I wasn't looking for a friend I wasn't working undercover, wasn't trying to pretend But when you walked across the dance floor, just like the moon across the sky I knew that I would have to see more, knew that I would have to try One look into your eyes, and I realize... Oh no I can't stop falling My heart betrays me And I know I'll start to feel it all again Won't someone save me She jumped aboard the brown line, I accidentally caught her eye She told me she was born a Libra, I told her I was Gemini She made suggestive conversation, then she lightly brushed my hand Overcome by her temptations, we jumped off down by the strand And in the English night, I realize it again... Chorus Bridge She asks me to come inside, we can just talk for a while I wonder if I should but her touch, her touch, it feels so good. But I look into your eyes, and I realize it again. Chorus
