Green Peter, To Break Your Heart

How many mountains can you climb how many poems do not rhyme how many night times in a day how many miles are you away Well, I've got to know now 'cause it came to me and you hurt me from the start now baby, what does it take to break your heart How may rivers do not meet how many rain drops on the street how many minutes from the hour will all the pain you gave to me Well, I've got to know now 'cause it came to me
and you hurt me from the start
now baby, what does it take to break your heart break:
What does it take to break your heart How many times did I believe you how many tears can I go if you can tell me there's an answer how many nights have you been gone Well, I've got to know now 'cause it came to me
and you hurt me from the start
now baby, what does it take to break your heart
to break your heart
to break your heart, um
to break your heart
to break your heart, oh
to break your heart
to break your heart, oh
to break your heart
to break your heart, um
to break your heart
to break your heart, oh
to break your heart
to break your heart,
to break your heart
to break your heart,
to break your heart
to break your heart,
to break your heart