

Greenwheel, This Too Shall Pass

Is it picking at you day and night?
Do you stare through the emptiness?
Do the days fly by like the wind blows
Leaving you breathless
You've done it now
You've tied your noose
You've got no reason trying anymore
Because it's no use
Do you wake up to the sun that never shines on you?
Do you pray for better days to this god who's never smiled on you?
Do you wish each day was your last?
This too shall pass
Don't get buried by your past
When it comes back around
Just leave your ghosts
Leave them sleeping
Don't take the sunrise for granted
Don't let frustration pull you down
Turn away from that rearview mirror
Look straight ahead
Don't throw your life away
Because sometimes you're all that you got