Grief Of Emerald, Humanity's Fall

a remniscant heartbeat pounding faster each pulse a step closer to violent death say your prayers, then be taken not above but far below from the womb a bloody foetus as devil's soldiers or heaven's slaves the essence of the word forsaken is, alas, thy waiting fate there is no god or master that can take you away from here ever present fierce and frightening confronting us all or haunting our dreams my only hope is that it takes us with it and erases the memory of all that's redeemed humanitys fall is the price for creation developing backwards...back into black the chance is now to kill the enemy for he is what you see in the mirror's glass