

Guster, Diane

The secrets that we keep We say them in our sleep and wrestle down our souls if we would speak I watched you board a train in the London rain and waved bye-bye as you slipped out of view Diane

We'll make it out together
In your dreams when the smile now comes, you're mumbling words with a lazy tongue.
We lie together when we say its love, who were you just thinking of, Diane?

Diane

Diane, I don't say it, but I know you know The theme returns so deep and visits us in sleep to define the you and I as we So we pass the time and occupy our minds and close our eyes and hope that we'll be fine
Diane

We'll make it out together
And I may leave in time you'll see I'll come right back for you
