

Gym Class Heroes, Noah

We like, fuck a hush on the bus that rush acting mad dumb singing bum-stiggedy bump plus we was mad young, I remember acting a fool we laughing at the monkeys fucking at that park zoo yo it was crazy cool raising hell at West Street school forget what the teacher said, yo, we made our own rules remember back in the day carving names in desks not even knowing six years later I would see your death we was just little kids doing childish shit til we got to middle school and got wild and shit and that's when we started chasing girls not even thinking about grades we was in a new world, our visions started to fade we was still homeboys acting out and such even though we didn't hang out as much

I told myself I'd never cry
I know, I know know why
I never even said goodbye but now I'm asking myself why cause I know, I know know why
I never even said goodbye

And now we in the High School smart fish in the lake we study trying to keep it real staying far from the fake its funny how the first month of school started to fly before I knew it your life was gone in the blink of an eye and now I'm stuck in denial this shit can't be

God tell me why you had to take Noah from me Why the fuck you had to go and take Noah from me?

I told myself I'd never cry
I know, I know know why
I never even said goodbye
but now I'm asking myself why
cause I know, I know know why
I never even said goodbye

School was crazy there the next day they didn't think I would last seeing phoney bitches trying to get the fuck out of class now I tried to play hard until I lost my cool that's when I ran to a stall to shed a tear or two I knew you full, I broke down and cried puddles now everytime I see your picture, my anger doubles and everytime I see your picture, my anger doubles

I told myself I'd never cry
I know, I know know why
I never even said goodbye and now I'm asking myself why cause I know, I know know why
I never even said goodbye
