

Hack SIGN, To Nowhere

can you hear the calling of the raving wind and water? we just keep dreaming of the land 'cross the river we are always on the way to find the place we belong wandering to no where, we're paddling down the raging sea

who can cross over such raving wind and water? on the rolling boat we sit, shivering with coldness come by an island, come by a hillock, it's just another place, we paddle on
down the raging sea

but in one morning we'll see the sun bright shining morning dew singing they who will search will find the land of evergreen

can you hear the calling of the raving wind and water? we just keep paddling down the sea, up the river no destination, but we are together in the silent sadness we're paddling
down the raging sea
down to no where
