

Halfway To Victory, Now Your Gone

looking through the mirror at my past my misery you know it kills me deep inside to know that your not there for me all all the colours in your eyes , slowly fade away
you know it kills me deep inside to know that your not there for me

And now , your gone i find it hard to breath
And now , your gone i find it hard to see
And now , your gone i find it hard to breath
And now , your gone...

Drowning in this river , yeah this all that i could take and it should kill you deep inside to know that you werent there for me and so i end this life , and end this suffering
and it should kill you deep inside to know that you werent there for me

And now i see the light,
I see that ever single fight Was just a test you tried to get the best of me i know its you , but what can i do But fall

And in the end , why should we pretend that we're still friends
You and i both know this is the end
This is the END, Yeah!

And now , your gone i find it hard to breath
And now , your gone i find it hard to see
And now , your gone i find it hard to breath
And now , your gone...

And now , your gone i find it hard to breath
And now , your gone i find it hard to see
And now , your gone i find it hard to breath
And now , your gone...
