

Halfwayhome, As The Moment Passes By

And So It Ends

It's Just Like In The Movies

In Disappearing Light She Cries Out To The Sky

Her Eyes Aglow With Reflection

This Will Mean I Only Have To Lie To You This One Last Time

I Cant Believe It Took So Long To Find Someone To Believe In

Every Hour Of Every Day Just To Keep Us Hanging Out

I Cant Stand Around While We're Falling To Pieces

Am I Gonna Have To Spend My Whole Life Waiting

Hands In The Air Just Anticipating

You Keep Things Falling Apart As The Moment Passes By

Am I Gonna Have To Spend My Last Redemption

Ten Pounds Of Pain For An Ounce Of Prevention

You Keep Things Falling Apart As The Moment Passes By

You've Got Your Reasons, The Come With Consequences

Those Bitter Colors, It Still Hurts To Remind Us

She Keeps Me Hanging On