

Hank Snow, The Party Of The Second Part

Written by Harlan Howard Recorded by Hank Snow

I got a letter from the court this morning, filled with big words lawyers seem to use They say that you have cursed me of neglect, dear, and with trembling hand I am writing you.

The party of the second part is very sad and blue, and wonders if the party of the first part is lonely too,

The party of the second part would give the world to win, the party of the first part back again.

They say that I have wronged you and they're right dear, I took for granted, love so sweet and true. But I have learned through many sleepless nights dear, the party of the second part loves you.

The party of the second part is very sad and blue, and wonders if the party of the first part is lonely too, the party of the second part would give the world to win, the party of the first part back again.
