

Hank Snow, Where Has All The Love Gone?

In a small country town when the flowers were in bloom I found her
Oh more beautiful love I know there's never been
In a great big city all alone I tried to forget her
And I keep asking myself over and over again

Where has all the love gone where has all the love gone
Where has all the love gone it's gone I only know it's gone
[fiddle - guitar]

On the soft sound of breeze we would drift on our cloud toward tomorrow
As we stare at the world through a window of rose colored pane
Now I stare at a jungle of concrete surrounded by sorrow
And I keep asking myself over and over again
Where has all the love gone...
It's gone I only know it's gone
