

Hank Williams Jr., Guess What, That's Right, She's Gone

My blood pressure worked no normal my temperature started to rise
A cold chill's a comin' all over and tears are fillin' my eyes
Guess what that's right she's gone
The days will turn into weeks the weeks will turn into years
And I'm turnin' into a block of stone I can't see for my tears
Guess what that's right she's gone
The train left town this morning guess who waved goodbye
A cute little trig in a bridal red dress and a man with a little bowtie
My mind is spinnin' in circles I'm about to go insane
Like a fool I'm a runnin' down the railroad track I'm tryin' to stop that train
Guess what that's right she's gone
[ac.guitar]
The train left town this morning...
Guess what you're right she's gone guess what that's right she's gone
