

Hank Williams Jr., She

She is just someone to wash your dirty clothes
Someone who never knows where all your money goes
She is just someone to teach the children right from wrong
And you never know how much she means until she is gone
She is just someone to cook all your meals
And act like you're a millionaire though you can't pay the bills
She is just someone to answer the telephone
And you never know how much she means until she is gone
And she's gone for good cause I was bad
Now everything I have is gone cause she was all I had
She is just someone to give me love and keep me warm
And you never know how much she means until she is gone
