

Harbourlight, Please

Son you're living far from home
You gone astray, you gone your own way
Please, come home
You're trying to prove yourself so strong
By doing anything you want
Just come back now and
Find what life's about
You're running yourself so lost

You're searching for something more
You're finding nothing at all

We just live once then we die
We got one life to live right
Please, come home
Please

Son don't lose your life to waste
You're losing all, just trying for a taste
Of little pretty things that
Are just as empty as
The space you're trying to fill inside

Home is here in heaven's keep
Home's where you'll be free
Please come home to open arms
Come back, let's restart
