

Headplate, On My Own

point the way i won't listen, cause i don't trust you tell me how and i will do, something different than you just sit back and shut your face, i don't trust you let me do my own mistakes, cause you don't know me i don't need you to be here now i got it on my own

you never understood why you should go away don't treat me like a child then you should run away and hide why don't you go away

see me were i stand right now, on my own two feet it's because of you i'm here, so shut the fuck up now you don't believe in me, why the hell not i haven't done you any wrong, so get of my back now
