

Heaven Ablaze, 1867

Norse mythology was brought
To the new world
In a time when Vikings roamed our land
Epic stories in verse have
Drifted through the ages
And the relics of time lay forevermore

In 1867 a colony had been launched
By the deed of surrender the
Great white north was ours
A dominion soon spread from
Sea to shining sea
A land of such majestic beauty
Shall lay peacefully forevermore

This land with mountains so soaring
A land with Great Lakes so broad
This land with the cruellest of all winters
A land I shall call my own
I am a patriarch