

Henning Ohlenbusch, Carnival

Ferris wheel, umbrella conceals,
If you were to try and kiss me.

Carousel, The horses won't tell,
If you were to try and kiss me.

Carnival, Summertime eternal.
The colored lights,
The evening breeze,
The smell of cotton candy.

Haunted house, as quietly as a mouse,
You tell me that you like me.

Roller coaster, you know you're supposed to
Be scared and hold on to me.

Carnival, Summertime eternal.
The colored lights,
The evening breeze,
The smell of cotton candy.

Only the fat lady knows.
And she won't tell a soul.

Carnival, Summertime eternal.
The colored lights,
The evening breeze,
The smell of cotton candy.
