Henry Rollins, Tired

I'm so tired of myself I'm tired in my sleep I'm so tired of my lies I'm tired of the secrets that I keep I'm so tires of looking inside myself Trying to find something I'm getting tired And I know I need something Because the grind is burning me out I don't want to hurt one of them But I'll do it I'm getting tired I'm so tired of the things that I hear I'm so tired of the things that I fear I've never seen the end so clear I'm getting tired I know I need something to make me live Because the grind is pounding me down I don't want to kill one of these walking insects But I'll do it I'm getting tired
