

Hepcat, You And I

You and I on a black sand shore
Watch the seagulls fly hear the ocean's roar
And in this precious, fleeting moment, we don't ask for more
As I look into your eyes .. the solution's clear
Now that you are near, the sky has never been so blue
The question was of happiness and the answer is you

You and I walking hand in hand
Count our problems small like those grains of sand
And as we watch the water steal our trouble from the land
It seems not long ago .. my worries touched the sky
They were piled so high, thought I would not make it through
But the question was of happiness and the answer is you

You and I on that black sand shore
Watch the clouds roll by and the seagulls soar
And as the sun sinks gently lower .. color starts to pour
Like the magic from the sky, until the stars appear
Singing loud and clear "Love has never been so true"
The question was of happiness and the answer is you