

Hocico, Distorted Face

You think it's time for being brave you think you're saved from all fear whatever you do you're late see in my eyes, you are here try to hide, try to run from me now you're naked to my eyes all what you did means something to me even your dreams on bad nights

You wanna say stop hating me now it's time to show some force I won't stop all these feelings you've always known what's my course try to hide, try to run, try to feign that you can go faraway I won't leave you alone, ever in life I'll be after you every day and night

I wanna feel your brave intentions I wanna face your emptiness and lies distorted face you know you have failed

Now it's time to say what you saw what you felt, what you thought tell me everything I want to know I see you'll do it, you're not strong

I smell your sweaty clothes you are dressed for the last day I hear your weak and trembling words nothing's important just this rage
try to hide, try to run, try to feign you can not trust in your faith before saying something, just come here you may be marked with my seal