

Honeydogs, 23rd Chromosome

The Hero's welcome home
He found a bit unsettling
When the movie rights were sold
He gave it all to charity
He was pleased to get the call
He hosts a gold diggers ball
He was there a shotgun blast
Knocked him off his pedestal

Common test tube kids
Don't forget your meds

Get set for party cocktails
A billion light years away
A place to rest my bones

They've found evil's home
23rd chromosome
Murder, famine, love and hate
The side effects of fate

He finally hit rock bottom
But he was still clawing for the abyss
There'll be no more goosesteps where we're going
Only sex and violins

Singing bottle hymns
Amputees find limbs

Get set for party cocktails
A billion light years away
A place to rest my bones

(The seeds are sown)

They've found evil's home
23rd chromosome
Murder, famine, love and hate
The side effects of fate

Ba ba ba bam

We've finally said goodbye
To the graveyard of by-rown memories
We've entered a new age
Of organ found deliveries
Kingsey found a home
For the terminal umbilicals
Ms. Anne Thrope gathers in her arms all the disfigured and unloved

Gazing at the stars
Jupiter and Mars

Get set for party cocktails
A billion light years away

(The seeds are sown)

They've found evil's home
23rd chromosome
