

Hundred Reasons, Oratorio

so strap yourself in again and do you find yourself able to breathe unhindered
we rise to the top again and they watch as we fall into whole bottomless and i lie beneath you and struggle for air and if i could walk on air i'd see where the wind would carry you clear from harm's way you mixed up the words you said and the sentences don't make any sense i know like always and i lie yes i lie strike the chord that i desire most why can't i believe in me so far down