

Hundred Reasons, The Great Test

You failed the first great test

And time waits for no man

Would try to digest

Make your stand

Forgone forget the lecture so long when did you make your choice

Stay calm take a hold of yourself and wound the others with your self denial

When you don't appreciate

You work against the other man

And when all you do is taking

And don't thank

Forgone forget the lecture so long when did you make your choice

Stay calm take a hold of yourself and wound the others with your self denial

You'd release the burden if you gave up and left