

Idina Menzel, Where Do I Begin

Where do I begin my love?
Starting with the things I haven't said enough of Starting with the day you changed my life and ending with the way I feel tonight
Where do I begin?

Where do I belong if you're not here?
This is way beyond my darkest fear
Don't know where I am or where I start
The trail in between is way too far
Where do I begin?

I've always counted all my blessings
Knowing you'll defend me, stand by my side
I always turn and lose my sense's each time I intended words to come out right
Where do I begin my love?

Maybe with the morning you brought me the sun
Maybe with the stars from out of space
You took a few and lit up my face
Where do I begin?

I've always counted all my blessings
Knowing you'll defend me, stand by my side
I always turn and lose my senses each time I intended for these words would come out right

Where do I begin my love?
I always read the last page instead of the first one
There's no need to rush it all in
I love you and I'll say it again
Where do I begin?
Where do we begin?
