

Jack Greene, There's More To Love

There's more to love than just saying I love you
There's more to love than words can say
There's more to holding you and just simply holding you
There's more to love than words can say

Once I had all the love you could offer me and I let it slip right through my hands
And now my life is so cold and so lonely since I lost the touch of your hand
There's more to love...
There's more to love than words can say