

Jack Greene, Yesterday's Letters

Fiery kisses linger on two lips that miss you so
As my nervous fingers sort the pages through
Here and there I find the line that makes me want to live
As yesterday's letters take me back to you
Yesterday's letters with yesterday's glow
Will tell me that you love me anytime I need to know
Yesterday's letters so timeless and true will always keep me close to you [steel]
A world that's held together by some lines of faded blue
Is not exactly what I've had in mind
But Cupid's little arrow can't be shared by more than two
So yesterday's letters will be my share of you
Yesterday's letters...