

Jack Russell, Leave Me Lonely crying in my sleep i wake up in heat i feel the chill from the other side of the empty bed and then i feel the pain coming on again oh lord please stop this pounding in my head a tear falls out of sight the last one i could cry is lost forever in the night you say you love me only but you're never there when i need you in the night you say you need me but you only leave me lonely lonely in the night wondering why you're not there lying without sleep i walk a restless dream the nights and days go by and by i bide my time a wish left unfulfilled a sentence without guilt i can't live i can't die and you know why a tear falls out of sight the last one i could cry is lost forever in the night

you say you love me only but you're never there when i need you in the night
you say you need me but you only leave me lonely lonely in the night
wondering why you're not there
you say you love me only but you're never there when i need you in the night
you say you need me but you only leave me lonely lonely in the night
wondering why you're not there if you only knew babe it just ain't right don't leave me lonely don't leave me lonely lonely in the night