

Jamai, Lettin' You Go

"I...I never realised the day we said goodbye, I never realised my world could fall this far, this far.

Why...why did I turn my back, and walk the other way. I couldn't find the words you wanted me to say. Now it's too late.

And now I've gone too far, and were building up a wall between us. And I've gotta find a way to get you back to me once again.

If letting you go means I lose you forever, then baby I know letting go was so wrong. And I can't live without knowing we're not together. I should've known better. Letting go...

Why...why did the promises I made have to break. And everything I gave you I threw it all away, is it too late?

Cause now I know for sure we had everything and more together. Now I've gotta find a way to get you back to me once again.

If letting you go means I lose you forever, then baby I know letting go was so wrong. And I can't live without knowing we're not together. I should've known better. Letting go...

And now I've gone too far, and were building up a wall between us. Now I've gotta find a way to get you back to me once again.

If letting you go means I lose you forever, then baby I know letting go was so wrong. And I can't live without knowing we're not together. I should've known better. I've should've known better. I've should've known better. Letting go...
