

James, Sandman

Hitching a ride with the sandman
Hell bury your head in his hands
Turn into a bland man
Where will you make your stand?
Hup springs, the voice in man
The prophet calls, the masters plan
You resist his true demands
Its an inner thing that calls at you
Makes you do what you must do
A voice you can ignore
Find the key that fits the door
Follow that song right to its core
Find the key that fits the door
Follow that song right to its core

But I would rather not go, I would rather stay home
I would rather not go, I would rather stay home
And eat and sleep and think and eat
And eat and sleep and think and eat

Rather not go, rather stay at
Rather not go, rather stay at home

If theres someone outside to see you
You can always run away
But when theres something inside does the calling
Theres nowhere you can hide

Jump down an open stair
Fire escape, to the frame and air
Hiding away from the wrong despair
Its and inner thing that calls at you
Makes you do what you must do
A voice you cant ignore
Find the key that fits the door
Follow that song right to its core
Find the key that fits the door
Follow that song right to its core

But I would rather not go, I would rather stay home
Id rather not go, I would rather stay home
Where I will eat and sleep and think and eat
And eat and sleep and think and eat

Talk to friends having oh such fun
Watching late night television
Other side of midnight

And eat
And eat
And eat, and eat, and eat, and eat, and eat...
Sleep and eat, sleep and eat...
