Jamey Johnson, The Dollar

Daddy hugs his little man Says, son I've got to go And he pulls out of the drive and disappears As they walk back in the house The young boy asks his mama "here does daddy go when he leaves here

Mama tells her little man, Your daddy's got a job And when he goes to work they pay him for his time Well the young boy gets to thinking And he heads up to his bedroom And comes running back with a quarter and four dimes

And says, mama, how much time will this buy me Is it enough to take me fishing or throw a football in the street If I'm a little short then how much more does daddy need To spend some time with me

The young boy tells his mama
Now I know daddy's busy
'Cause most times when he gets home it's dark outside
But tell him I've got me some pennies
Saved up from the tooth fairy
And I keep 'em in my piggy bank and I believe there's thirty-five

And mama, how much time will that buy me Is it enough to take me camping in a tent down by the creek If I'm a little short then how much more does daddy need To spend some time with me

Mama, how much time will this buy me Is it enough for just an afternoon a day or a whole week If I'm a little short then how much more does daddy need To spend some time with me

Mama takes her little man
Sets him on her lap
And starts dialing up some numbers on the phone
She says, daddy come home early
You don't have to chase that dollar
'Cause your little man has got one here at home
