

Jason Mraz, No Doubling Back

It'd be nice to hold your hand as we shifted through this twisted abandon i would like to think that you know your way i realize the ropes of rain well the cats and dogs they love to play on the handsome fella with the umbrella who wants to save you your day and i will ask you to open my door from the side from the inside after you drive because i wanna stay awake for a little bit longer that's why warm the engine compartment up while i stand here thinking of but it's a little too early to bury the worries til this wish is my command and i wonder, wonder which one of us is gonna state the obvious and i wonder if you already know that i gotta let you go i know this ain't the way i planned it i guess i ain't the great romantic and i'm not doubling back now no doubling back doubling back now

well before i catch you complaining that it hardly rains at all let me stop to lock the top for fear of it falling off my eyes were easily arms...?? stars are where the war was waged on...?? words that we heard as a joke how did it drive now, love oh lord when it rains it's sure to pour but when i look in your eyes i feel i won't see surprise that i'm not doubling back i wonder, wonder which one of us

is gonna state the obvious i wonder if you already know
that i gotta let you go
i know this ain't the way i planned it
i guess i ain't the great romantic
and i'm not doubling back now no doubling back now (x5)
doubling back now
no turning around now no going back now