

Jeff Edwards, Escape

All the time she had held my mind.
I had stood in line like a child.
Every day I was taken away
From the place, I felt that I belonged.

Wicked days in so many ways.
I have never been. Never been the same.
Looking hungry at the handle on the door.
I walk outside.

I just wanted to escape.
Just wanted to escape.
All the reasons in my head.
That would take me away.

I just wanted to be free.
To live my life alone.
Get out of living in a warzone
And live peaceful on my own.

Free my mind from the countless tears,
And the countless years since I can't remember when.
Chasing you was a sport I chose not to do.
I turned around and ran the other way.

I just wanted to escape.
Just wanted to escape.
All the reasons in my head.
That would take me away.

I just wanted to be free.
To live my life alone.
Get out of living in a warzone
And live peaceful on my own.

Ooooh. Ah-ooooh.

I just wanted to escape.
Just wanted to escape.
I just wanted to be free.
Just wanted to be free.
