

Jeff Edwards, Sight Or Sound

Am I blind, or can I see.
'Cause I'm bumping into things
That are right in front of me.

My compass is spinning.
Drifting aimlessly.
I can't read the stars tonight.
I'm lost at sea.

I've got no eyes to see you smile.
There's no distinction between dark and light.
No horizon between earth and sky.

I've got no hands to feel my way.
I've got an illness without a name.
No touch, no taste, no smell.
No sight or sound.

I've got no eyes to see you smile.
There's no distinction between dark and light.
No horizon between earth and sky.

I've got no hands to feel my way.
I've got an illness without a name.
No touch, no taste, no smell.
No sight or sound.
