

Jennifer Brown, Million Dollar House this is a story of a girl who had it all and threw it all away she lived the life, she lived the dream she had the world but made a big mistake she left her friends behind, became a butterfly forgot the wrong from right and blew the dream away now there's a million dollar house for sale there's a million dollar bills to pay just because you get the things you want it doesn't mean to say that you, you would do the same it's just the story of a girl

she met the kind of guy who likes to break the rules her mama used to say (french) now he was charming he was young but such a fool and every chance he'd take he took her everywhere, made her pay the rent and everything he spent she gave him anyway
