Jens Lekman, Someone To Share My Life With

I don't want a girl who hangs on every word I say Who shows me off to her parents over roast beef on Sunday I don't want a girl who thinks she has to fake I don't want a girl who laughs at every little joke I make

I just want someone to share my life with I just want someone to share my life with

I don't want a girl who thinks there's only me to please I don't want a girl who thinks it's fun to tease I don't want a girl who thinks she has to cater for my every needs I don't want a girl to go down on her knees

I just want someone to share my life with I just want someone to share my life with and that someone could be you that someone could be you

You could be that someone You could be that someone
