

Jeremy Warmasley & Emmy The Great, The Boat

we played a while in the sand
'till it rained and the floods began 40 days it was biblical had the idea of building a boat
and we had

one boat for you and
one boat for me
we sailed away on the never ending sea

i caught a glimpse of your sails away i tried to signal but she sailed on by was it a ghost or a trick of the light or are you sleeping in the ocean tonight?

one bed for you and
one bed for me
we sleep alone on the never ending sea

if i ever see the solid ground
know i won't be turning around seems so strange that i played with you now my hands are hardened and my heart is too there is

one rule for you and one rule for me
always alone on the never ending sea

one boat for you
one boat for me
we sailed away on the never ending sea

the rains lifted and i saw you near but i'd rather go alone from here back to the sandbox
back to play
but i remember the parting on the waves and we said

one boat for you and
one boat for me
always alone on the deep never ending sea

"feel free to correct the lyrics as there may be some mistakes, apologies if there are."