

Jester's Funeral, Fear of Fear

music by Stefan Schmidt & Bastian Emig, lyrics by Stefan Schmidt

Once upon a time there was a man brave as men can be, strong enough to show the world what he

But one very cold winter's night, he walked alone, darkness at his side, neon black hands came from the fear of fear then was gripping him,
the fear of fear then was gripping him.

From then on he always thought about this night, he thought of a nightmare he could fight back, but

And then every cold winter's night, when he walked alone, darkness at his side, neon black hands
the fear of fear then was gripping him,
the fear of fear then was gripping him.