

Jill Johnson, Nathalie

Nathalie where did you go your family they miss you so they don't know what to do without you did you take a walk and did you go too far are you lost somewhere out in the dark the waiting is so cruel

I hope somebody has your hand and I pray you're somewhere safe It's hard for me to understand this crazy world today

I'm not the only one who knows you're gone today when I walk out my door I won't be the girl I was before you made a mark inside my heart how could I be I'm thinking about you Nathalie

She was only five years old her story barely even told another mother lost a child today we shake our heads it makes no sense and we mourn the loss of innocence and silently we search for words to say

I hope somebody has you hand
and I pray you're somewhere safe
this crazy world today
