

Jimmy's Chicken Shack, 30 Days

if i don't kid myself today if i don't care about a thing would i be light enough to fly and if i just rid myself the weight of memories and doubts
if the world was flat would you jump off i think i'd float down like a feather she lights the stars in the sky you know, angels can see them clear through foul weather
and when the race ends
will we all fall down
safe and sound
30 days
as she wakes up and i'm caught staring again she asks me
"what did you dream?"

i haven't stopped and isn't this part of it as we lay rivers where once were streams
if we lost our way would we trade it now for the way we found the ground and how 30 days
without the sun
just a little scared of what might become and we're home when we're together home when we're together we are home when we're together 30 days
