

Jinger Just, Today Again

I made somebody smile today
He sang from from the clouds today
So did I
For some the earth never opens wide
To see the otherside
They just hide

I'm up, today, again
Will we be here tomorrow and then

Now for a short while I sold myself
Put my heart on the shelf
For nothing much

I thought that I would not make it through
I bit more than I could chew
But I'm still here
I'm still here and oh I know

That I'm up, today, again
Will we be here tomorrow and then

I did not hold myself worthy to be alive
I did not hold myself worthy to be alive

I'm up, today, again
Will we be here tomorrow and then

I made somebody smile today
That sweet child died today, so did I
Today, my opens really opened wide
I saw the otherside

(In memory of 16-year-old Tony Thomson)