

Jody Miller, We're Gonna Let The Good Times Roll

Today's gonna be my lucky day we're gonna let the good times roll
Today's the day he's coming home to stay we're gonna let the good times roll
Gonna meet my baby at a quarter to ten gonna let the good times roll
Gonna be at the station when the train pulls in gonna let the good times roll
Gonna let the good times roll gonna let the good times roll
Gonna be at the station when the train pulls in gonna let the good times roll
[guitar]
Gonna see my baby come face to face gonna let the good times roll
Gonna dance a little jig all over the place gonna let the good times roll
Gonna walk right in he's gonna sit right down gonna let the good times roll
When he gets here we're gonna paint the town gonna let the good times roll
Gonna let the good times roll gonna let the good times roll
When he gets here we're gonna paint the town gonna let the good times roll
[guitar]
Gonna kiss my baby gonna hold him tight gonna let the good times roll
Gonna hug him close with all of my might gonna let the good times roll
Gonna lock the windows gonna bar the door gonna let the good times roll
He ain't never gonna leave no more gonna let the good times roll
Gonna let the good times roll gonna let the good times roll
He ain't never gonna leave no more gonna let the good times roll