

John Gold, Cactusflower

you phone around, but everyone's staying home another night alone can make your head go spin but the needles on the phonograph must be cursing: &quot;you gotta let it be&quot;; in the brown of your wall you can hear another way to make the west coast ladies do the eastside shake, as long as the one across town just can't wait turns on her stereo

we can find something finer than some coins in a wishing well all in good time, when wrong is right and i'm another one, that's what i mean she said her soul is torn and her thinking not straight, her patched up heart becoming worn and frayed i got my needle and thread going all the right ways put on your party dress all this time, it flies by mine let's spend our whole life in a waiting room only to find your palm was right there was no line for apologies i am rain on the dusted desert summertime

not have to wait for long
