

John Hiatt, The Nagging Dark

how fast you gonna run?

away from this one anywhere but here

you wanna disappear

to the next daylight

where everythings right it's always somewhere else you're gonna fix yourself once shame and guilt

have made their mark

CHORUS:

you can't run away from the nagging dark

toy carry it everywhere in your heart

it finishes everything that you start

how much it gonna cost?

when everything's lost

what a price you'd pay

just to feel some way

'Cause you're heart is stone ground down to the bone all your flesh and blood just ashes and mud

feels like your soul's been blown apart

how far can you see?

will you even be free?

through the blackest night you still hold on tight hope is your finest work it's your finest work hope is your finest work of art

you carry it everywhere in your heart
